

Friday 16 December 2022

Board Briefing, from the Chair of our NHS Grampian Board

Alison Evison has shared another instalment of her Board Briefing blog, following the special meeting which took place yesterday to discuss the Winter Tactical Plan as well as the next steps for re-shaping maternity services in Moray. View the blog: <https://sway.office.com/v328qCEugDoZ7L2Q?ref=Link>

Vehicle tyres and safety checks

Please see the additional attachment provided with today's brief to help provide a briefing on vehicle tyres and safety checks for fleet and pool vehicles.

That was the week that was Missed a brief? Never fear, they are all available online, here's a quick run through of what we covered this week:

Monday 12 – Some guidance on Step A, not to be confused with Invasive Group A Streptococcus (which remains very rare), advice on returning to practice and details of how you can use the Pink Communication Boxes to help anyone who has a communication impairment.

Tuesday 13 – New website and booklet to support winter health, pay arrangements, IPC advice and festive service arrangements.

Wednesday 14 – Festive visiting arrangements, details of the Disability Confident Scheme, Wellbeing Wednesday and a Winter Step Count Challenge.

Thursday 15 – A bumper Ask Caroline episode, letter from the Cabinet Secretary, more on our upgrade of Moray maternity services and an Open University awareness session.

Tune of the day

Today's tune of the day comes from retail catering manager, Fiona McKenzie. She's off to see The Proclaimers this weekend and is anticipating a 500 mile walk to get there! ;)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oUv0NbjbGzQ&list=RDEM6XVXd1FA_VmkuJYowC9-xw&start_radio=1

Let's hope not, but if you are traveling this weekend, tread carefully. If you're working, may your shift be merry and bright! Stay cosy (KJ).

If you want to request a tune, follow up on items included in this brief, or suggest an item for sharing, drop us an email via gram.communications@nhs.scot